Ethics and Boundaries Courses

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY MEDICAL CENTER

The Center for Professional Health
Nashville, TN

www.mc.vanderbilt.edu/root/vumc.php?site=cph

Entitled Maintaining Proper Boundaries, the course was developed specifically to help state Boards of Medical Examiners respond to physicians who are having difficulty with boundary issues but who have not engaged in criminal behavior. Re-education in a continuing medical education (CME) course is provided for physicians without a major sanction against their license to practice and for physicians who are returning from treatment and planning to return to practice. Boards of Medical Examiners find this course appropriate for physicians who need a disciplinary action less severe than licensure revocation but stronger than a simple warning. Treatment centers may also refer physicians to the course to assist them in relapse prevention, reentry to practice, and development of proper office procedures.

The three-day course combines traditional didactic instruction, confrontation, personal examination, and practical problem solving.
